The Fiftieth Year at Randolph-Macon Woman's College

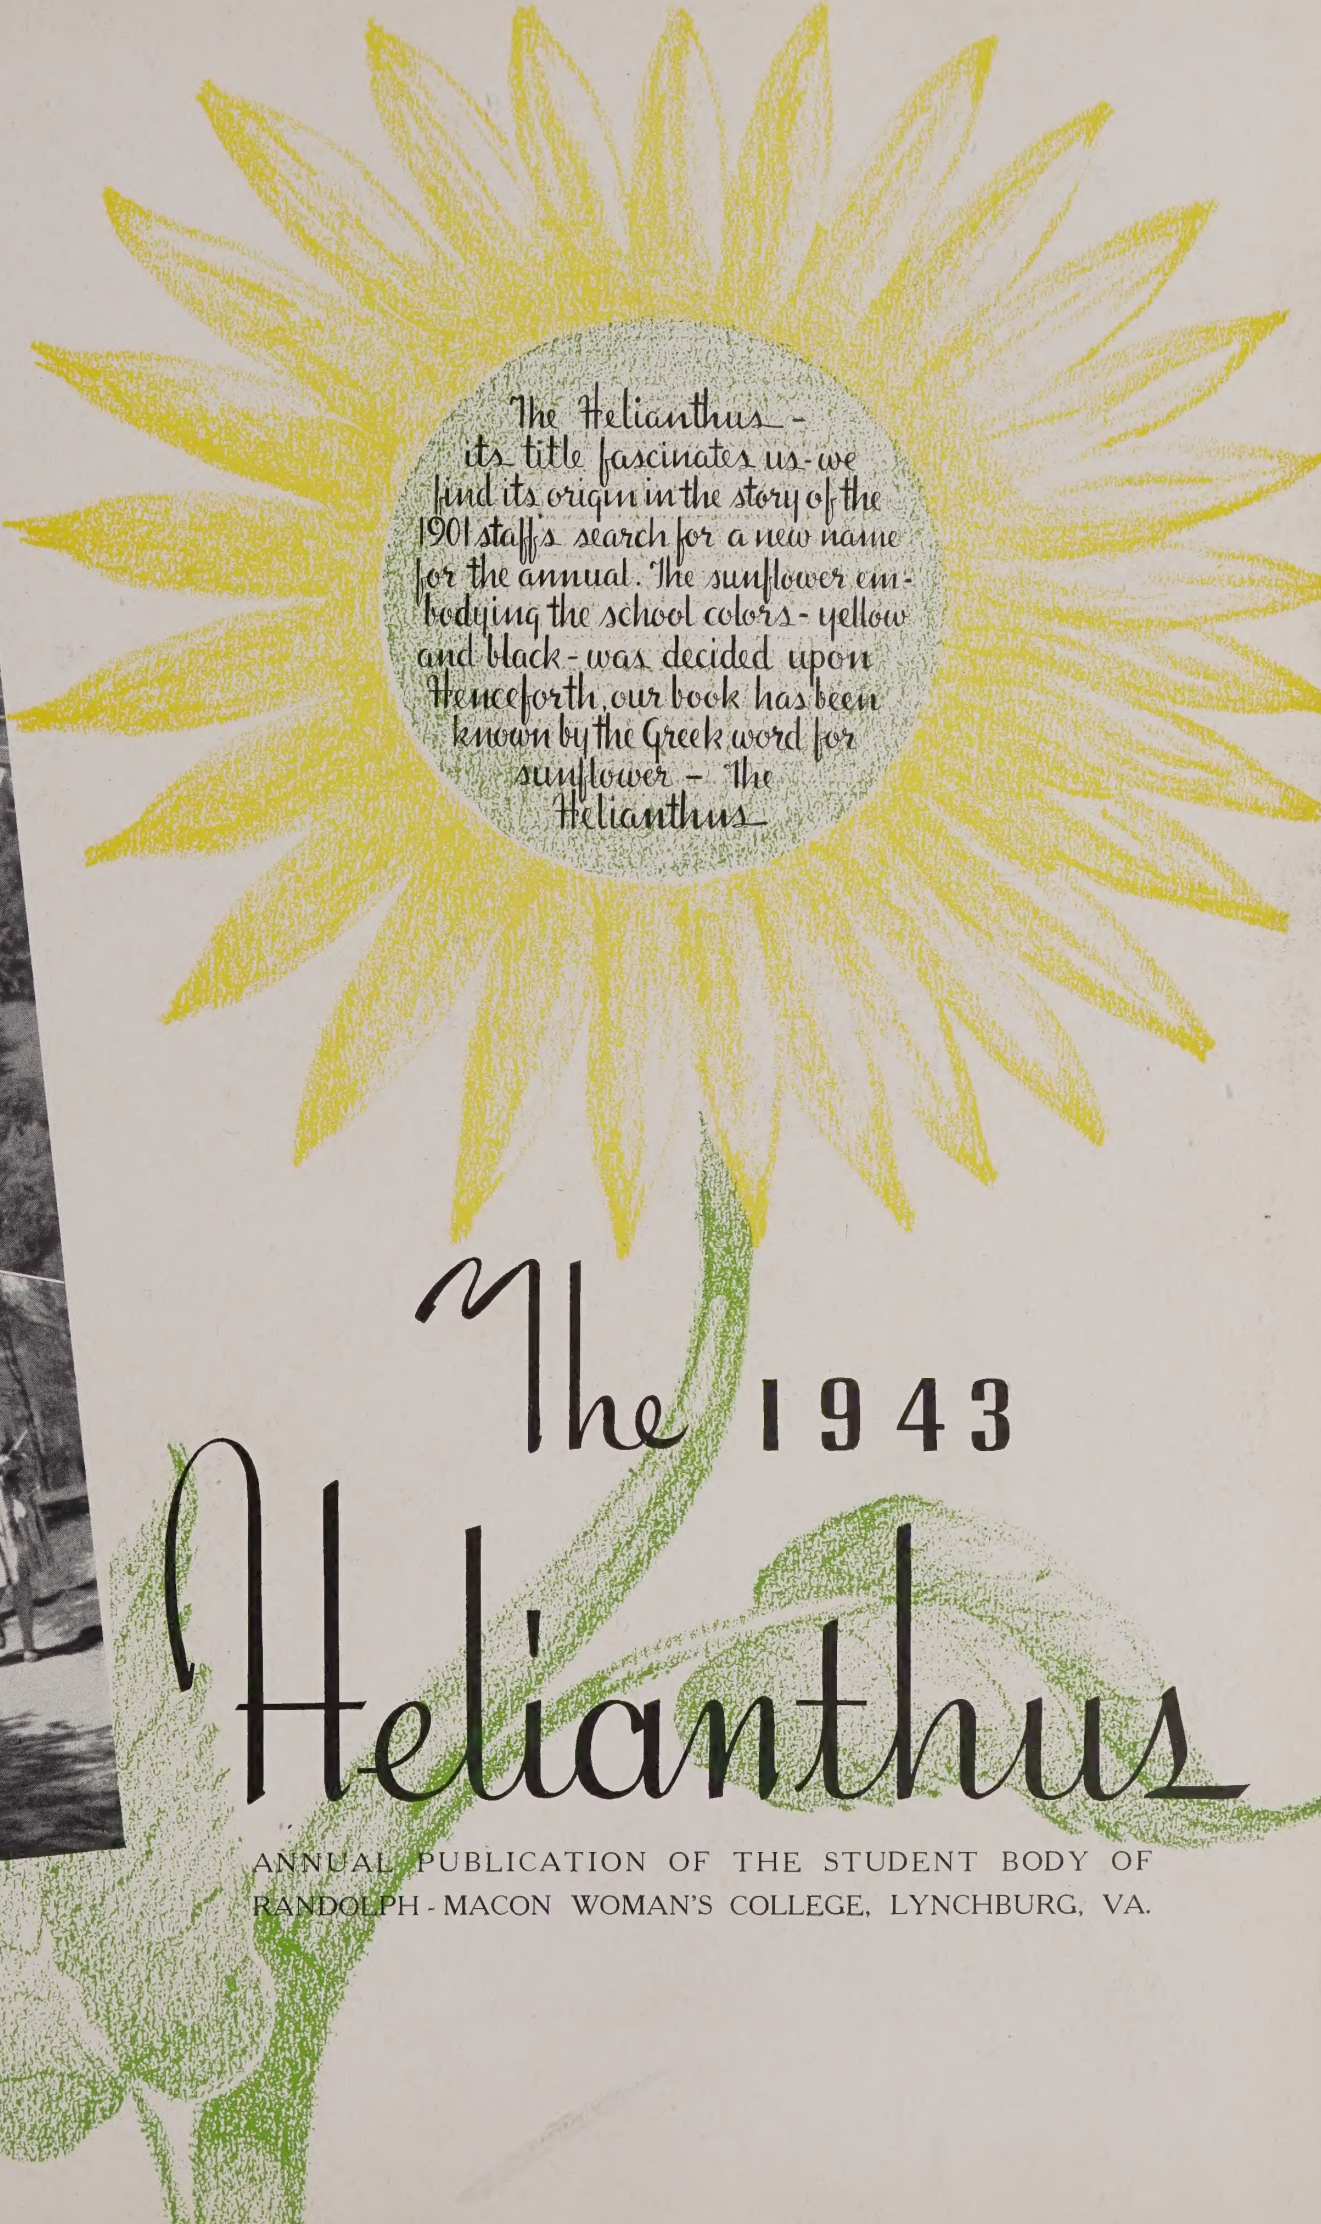

1943

A yellow sunburst graphic is located in the bottom right corner of the page, partially overlapping the year '1943'. It has a textured, hand-drawn appearance with many pointed rays.

The Helianthus - its title fascinates us - we find its origin in the story of the 1901 staff's search for a new name for the annual. The sunflower embodying the school colors - yellow and black - was decided upon.
Henceforth, our book has been known by the Greek word for sunflower - The Helianthus.

Foreword

FIFTY YEARS of Randolph-Macon. Fifty years of guiding the many who have loved her to a life richer in truth and goodness and beauty. Because the space of a half century connotes a threshold on which the past and future stand alike, we express appreciation to you who have been the first fifty years of Randolph-Macon and we challenge you who shall be the second fifty years. We do not attempt here a resume of past years, but rather we cherish them as they live today in the Randolph-Macon we know—we give you, 1943.

OUR ALMA MATER

RANDOLPH-MACON WOMAN'S COLLEGE

A Year of Remembering

This, our fiftieth year, is a special time for remembering and paying tribute to our valuable heritage. As we look back to the beginnings and trace the steps of steady expansion, we see that through all the years the college has held to the same lofty ideals and purposes that mark the early days and that have been the creating factors in the college as we now know it. The founder, Dr. William Waugh Smith, was the guiding spirit throughout the experimental years. It was chiefly through his enthusiasm and determination that the college gained a firm footing, won national recognition, and established security for the future. Dr. Smith served as president from the opening in 1893 until his death in 1912. He was succeeded in 1913 by Dr. William A. Webb, who presided over the college for the next six years. Dr. D. R. Anderson became president in 1920 and served until 1931. The following two years the dean, Dr. N. A. Pattillo, was acting president, as he had been twice before for shorter periods. In 1933 Dr. Theodore Henley Jack became president. These leaders have held to the high standards set by Dr. Smith and have carried out the program of development that he initiated.

Much progress has been made since the college opened its doors on September 14, 1893. At that time there were thirty-six resident students and seventy-one day students; for the present session the enrollment is 643, of whom about six hundred live on campus. The first faculty numbered eleven, and there are now seventy members in residence. The curriculum has been enlarged far beyond its original scope; and the present cluster of buildings is in great contrast to the one structure that was sufficient in the beginning. Randolph-Macon has received well merited recognition: it was the first woman's college south of the Potomac to be granted a charter of Phi Beta Kappa; it is on the approved list of the Association of American Universities; and its graduates have been eligible to the American Association of University Women since the founding of that organization. Today more than nine thousand women, nearly four thousand of whom are graduates, claim Randolph-Macon as their alma mater; they have proved themselves worthy of the heritage in which we share.

Randolph-Macon is a college of traditions that have been carefully nurtured by each succeeding generation. The language is not so ornate, but the same earnestness and sincerity, the same loyalty and pride are characteristic today that were manifested by the contributors to the first annual, Maconiana, in 1899. That annual was lovingly dedicated "To those who follow us" with good wishes for our success in our kindred occupations. The first Helianthus in 1901 expressed the hope that it would bloom from year to year as a symbol of goodness and nobility. To those forerunners we extend our appreciation. It is the summation of all the years of effort and lofty idealism that has brought about the glowing realization of their dreams.

ASSOCIATION

The Judiciary Committee is really not as awesome as the name implies! Better known as "Judish"—its purpose is to handle any disciplinary problems of a more serious nature that arise in the student body. Students and faculty work together in full cooperation, and each situation brought to their attention is discussed and analyzed with the utmost care and thought. Every attempt is made to be fair and understanding. A large part of the work of this committee too, is that of interpretation, with an eye toward maintaining the high standard of community life that Randolph-Macon is proud of—its Honor System.

ACT I "KIND LADY"

Joan Ray, Julie Stanton, Din Freeman, Mary Jane McNutt

The Latin Club

Membership consists of seniors who take Latin . . . At the first meeting in November, Dr. Herbert C. Lipscomb was host and speaker, telling "The Story of Catullus" . . . The December meeting was Christmascy with the familiar carols sung in Latin, the Christmas story read in Latin, an account of the many customs of our Christmas derived from the Roman Saturnalia, and a Roman game . . . At a later meeting Horace was the subject of interest. While enjoying refreshments each time, classroom manners put aside, there is a cross fire of questions to and from the always interested and interesting Dr. Lipscomb—a senior privilege thoroughly enjoyed.

POEM

On the thirteenth of April
While the Evens slept sound
Dark, joyous figures
Scurried over the ground.
'Twas the dawn of Odd Day
And everywhere
Signs, figures, and murals
Were fastened with care.

When daylight disclosed
The Sophomores work
Strange, wonderful sights
Round R.-M. did lurk.
"To be unhealthy is a sin so park
Your germs when you come in."
This advice was over
The stately gate,
From it and others Evens
Read their fate.

A gruesome Manchu
Over Webb toward
While Even-dead "Aggie"
At diners glowered
Frankenstein in East
And Atlas of Main,
Pasteur of Shangri-La
And medical fame,
And angle Florence
Utopia's light
All showed that Odds
Know health is right.

Money for Uncle Sam
In a large amount
From stamps and bonds
Sold without count.
Carnations swayed in an arch
Held high
As white-clad Seniors,
Dear sisters, passed by.

Station Odd brought Talented fame
And a matchless ballad
Of a daisy chain.
In the warm earth,
Ragged robin swayed
By gentle Odd hands
Its roots were stayed.
Toasts and songs and
Love all around
The sisters that night
At their banquet found.

Soft cand'light on
Sad faces shining
Soft voices lifted in Melody combining
Odd day is ended by
Seniors parading
But Odd memory repaints it Never fading.

—MILDRED RIDLEY

EVEN DAY

ESTELLE ANDERSON
Chairman

'Twas March 14th and all through the day,
All Evens celebrated in the Even way.
Buttons was placed by the post with care
And the faithful Bones was also there.

The halls represented four famous faces
With East and Webb, the best of places,
As Roosevelt and Churchill while New and West
As Hitler and Tojo were gruesomely dressed.

When in Main Hall lobby there rose such a clatter,
We dashed out to see just what was the matter.
And what to our wondering eyes did appear
But girls buying stamps, that much was clear.

For every stamp or bond that was sold
The purchaser received a medal of gold
Over three thousand dollars bought by all
That shows these Even's are on the ball.

When the banquet was over and medals presented
Loyalty and friendship on each heart was imprinted.
We pledged love to Bones, Buttons, and
Even Light
And said "Happy Even Day and to all a good night."

ONCE IN A LOVETIME

RANDOLPH-MACON'S WAR EFFORT

LATHROP BEALE, MISS HELEN PEAKE
Steering Committee Chairmen

Another year spent in carrying out our purpose, "To mobilize the abilities and resources of the faculty, staff, and students of R.-M. W. C., to support to the fullest the Government of the United States and its Allies in their resolution to defeat the enemies of Democracy." . . . Planning the conference—writing to Washington, sending telegrams, making posters, collecting questions. . . . The Scrap Drive—finding beds and benches, chandeliers and bath tubs hidden for years in the attic, working like a roadgang to haul them in—16,570 pounds of scrap from R.-M.! . . . Then the conference itself—two long days of lectures and discussions, speakers from Washington, questions by students, serious thinking, comedy when flash bulbs went off at the wrong time. . . . International Students' Day, renewing our pledges—to W. S. S. F., to our R.-M. Nursery shelter. . . . Working in the Work Room—knitting, sewing, making surgical dressings. . . . Buying War Stamps, saving for Bonds. . . . Training for service—learning to type and take shorthand, studying nutrition, practicing first aid, working over drafting. . . . Then as spring came many pledging themselves to measure all their every-day living by the needs of the war. . . . Holding discussions on Post War Planning. . . . Doing smaller things—sending records to soldiers here, cigarettes to those overseas. . . . Things big and little, serious and sometimes funny, all part of our contribution to the war.
